To whom it can concern,

I am writing to HIGHLY recommend Devin Peterson to you for the position for which he has applied. I have personally known Devin and his family since he was born and have had professional dealings with him since he enrolled as a student at West Coast in June 2011.

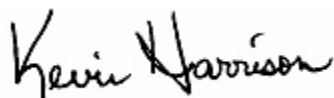

As a student at West Coast, Devin excelled in every respect. He approached his education with a level of seriousness not often seen in students who his peers. While his 3.98 GPA is evidence of his academic potential, what impressed me most about him is the fact that he asked numerous questions throughout the program as he sought to earn his education, not merely a degree. He did not merely want to embrace an ideology because he was taught to do so; he displayed a desire to learn about the given subject matter as he gathered information and arrived at an understanding of the "why" behind the "what" he believes. He is an excellent student!

As a person, Devin is a man of integrity who is an excellent example of what it means to be a follower of Jesus Christ. He is devout husband, faithful son and brother, committed student of the Word of God. He possesses a teachable spirit and willingness to learn from his past mistakes. His personal commitment combined with his commitment to excellence makes him a tremendous candidate for your position.

As an educator and minister, I am cautious when recommending people for any position because they are a direct reflection of my life and ministry. However, I can wholeheartedly, without reservation, endorse Devin Peterson. He will be an outstanding representative of your organization.
